McGovern Madness

This McGovern madness has us puzzled and concerned.

Just look at his record in the primaries—he won four in one day. And notice the effect he seems to have on people. Governor Bumpers, for instance. Opening day at the National Governors Conference, Bumpers said that McGovern couldn't carry the South. Three days later after McGovern attended the conference, Bumpers said that he thought McGovern "might do very well in the South."

Why the change? Well, Bumpers said that it was his "sincerity." A recent example of this was McGovern's response in California when all those unemployed people asked him about his proposal to cut the defense budget by $30 billion. He answered that yes, he would do this, but he wouldn't close any defense plants or military bases in California.

McGovern apparently mesmerizes people, changing their judgments about other people. Governor Bumpers, Hubert Humphrey and even Shirley Chisholm are now saying that George Wallace is an all-right guy who just might find his way on to the Democratic ticket. Bumpers now has the notion that the same people who are for Wallace are also for McGovern. How could that be?

Wallace wants less government, not more, which is what McGovern wants. Wallace wants less integration, not more, which is what McGovern wants. Wallace wants less welfare, not more, which is what McGovern wants. Wallace wants lower taxes, not higher ones, which is what McGovern wants.

If Bumpers means that they are both extremists, then we will agree with him. We will even go so far as to say that McGovern is a better, or a more "sincere," extremist than Wallace. (Wallace doesn't pretend to believe all of what he says, but he does usually say the same thing everywhere he goes.) What's not proven yet is that a majority of people like extremists.

We don't think they do. But the important thing is that everyone be aware that we have one on our hands with the senator from South Dakota. It's not his specific programs that bother us so much as his approach, which amounts to a turn-about in the American system. He would de-emphasize incentive. The government would be giving people money—not just poor people but everyone would get $1,000 a year, and those with incomes over $12,000 would have to pay taxes on it. He would raise corporate taxes to the 1960 level, choking off any reason for expansion. Also, he would close loopholes and impose a high minimum tax rate on the rich that would mean that the man who gave to charity or bought government bonds would have to pay the same tax as the skinflint who kept every penny for himself. When they died, their heirs would have to turn 77 per cent of the estate over to the government. McGovern calls this redistribution of wealth. We call it baloney.

Incentive is what has built this country. It's what makes it different from socialist societies. What incentive would there be if you knew that the government was going to take most of what you made away from you and give it to people, many of whom didn't need it or want it? Why would men work their hearts out while they were alive if they knew that less than one-fourth of the money or property they accumulated could go to their wives or children when they die?

Furthermore, McGovern's program won't work—not even on paper. Editors of William Buckley's National Review added up the cost of all the McGovern programs using his own figures. And even by soaking the rich and cutting

making comeback
among graduates

By LEIF ERICKSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The family doctor is coming back strong among the nation's new generation of medical school graduates.

"The reversal trend from specialized practice is clear," Dr. Carroll L. Witten of Louisville told an American Medical Association family practice session today.

Ninety per cent of the University of Washington's last three medical school classes are entering family practice, said Dr. Edward J. Kowalewski of Baltimore.

Witten reported the number of family practitioners in the nation dropped from 80,000 in 1947 to 59,000 in 1967 and has returned to 64,000. He said the recovery rate will speed up in future years.

The decline in family practitioners developed with a surge to specialized practice after World War II.

The sharp increase in medical graduates choosing family instead of specialized practice reflects both a public need and demand and a commitment in the young medical generation, said Kowalewski, head of the division of family practice at the University of Maryland.

He said 126 of the 240 students in Maryland's last two classes are choosing to be family physicians.

Kowalewski said today's students demand courses in counseling, a craft the present mature family physician learned by experience.

"I believe counselling starts with a baby's checkup visit to your office a month after birth," he said.

"That's when you start diet counselling to prevent coronary disease, diabetes, and obesity."

Researcher
rejuvenates
stored blood

COPENHAGEN (AP) — An American researcher says he has discovered a method of rejuvenating blood that has been stored so long it is considered useless.

One scientist said this would make it possible for most of the blood that is collected in hospitals and blood banks to be put to good use. Scientists believe a substantial amount is now lost because it is not used within a certain time.

Hang in there, Wilbur Mills. When the light dawns, the Democrats might find you to be the most attractive thing in Miami Beach.

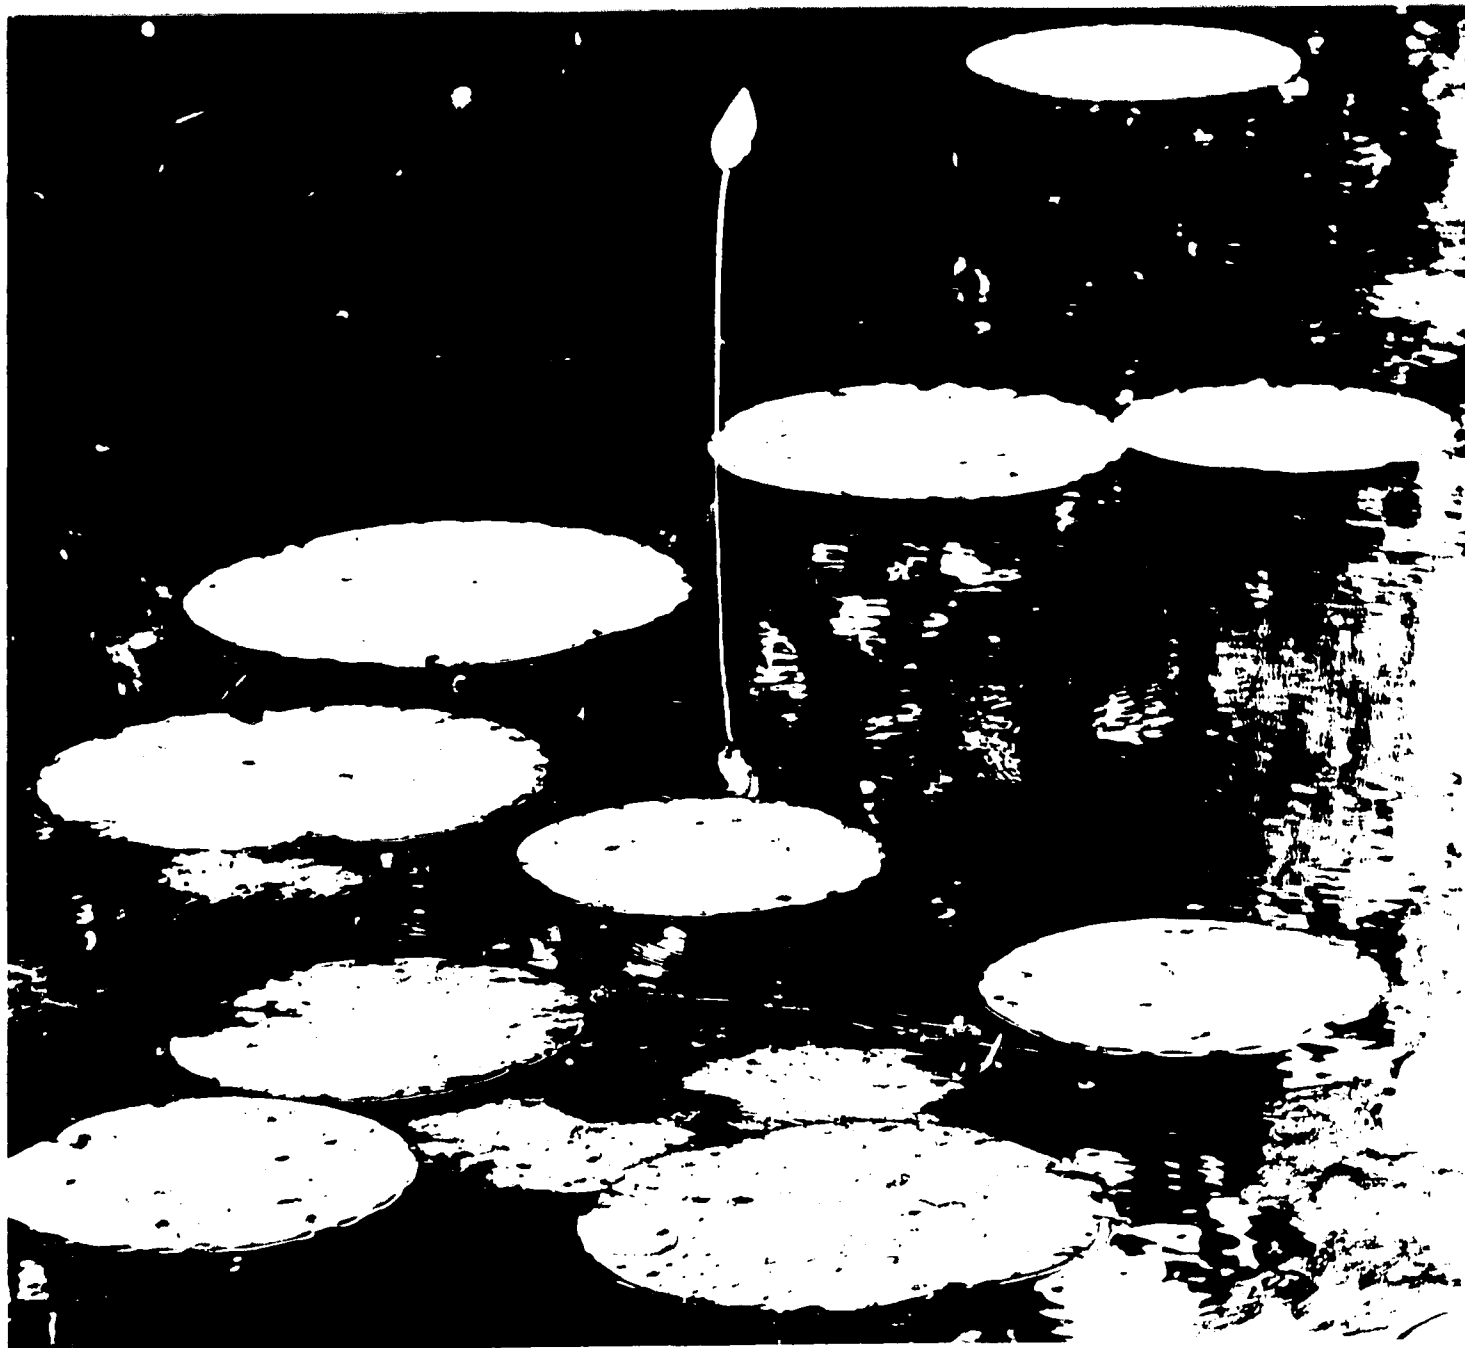

Outrageous
Lee Munson, who has just been elected Pulaski County prosecuting attorney, has admitted paying people not to distribute campaign literature for his opponent in the runoff June 13.

Munson's only defense is a claim that some of the material was "smut" that was illegal because it was unsigned. A witness who reported the incident denies that the workers had anything but legitimate cards and bumper stickers for Roger Glasgow.

It is not clear whether Munson's act is illegal. There are laws prohibiting payment to influence votes, but that might not apply in this case. And the most severe laws are for officeholders rather than candidates.

If it wasn't illegal, it certainly was an outrageous way for a candidate to behave. It is especially shocking that the man who did it is the man whose job will be to create respect for the law.

If some people were handing out illegal campaign literature, as Munson claims, his proper course was to call the police. — Arkansas Democrat

McGovern now running against the president

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern, described by aides as assured of the Democratic presidential nomination, has scheduled a six-state swing through the South to muster support for a campaign against President Nixon.

"We're running against Nixon now," said Frank Mankiewicz, one of the South Dakota senator's top strategists.

McGovern needs no fresh support from Dixie to win the nomination, his strategists said Thursday. In fact, they have said he will have enough convention delegates for the nomination by July 1.

The reason for the trip, they said, is to show Southern Democratic leaders he can do well in the region believed to be his weakest, and also to rev up his supporters for the fall campaign.

McGovern is scheduled to begin the trip Monday with stops in Oklahoma City and San Antonio, Tex. He continues to Little Rock, Ark., and Atlanta on Tuesday, and Columbia, S.C., and Richmond, Va., on Wednesday.

The latest Associated Press delegate count gave McGovern 1,302.5, just over 200 short of the 1,509 he needs for the nomination. McGovern aides have said he will have 1,407 delegates by the end of the week, and another 102 delegates by July 1.

Meanwhile, the campaigns of both McGovern and his leading rival for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, have slowed momentarily.

Humphrey was scheduled to meet Thursday with delegates in New Jersey but remained in Washington because of a rainstorm. He planned to address black newspaper editors in Miami today.

McGovern remained in Washington and planned a weekend's rest at his summer home at St. Michael's, Md.

McGovern was handed a court victory in California on Thursday. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Philip Wilkins in Sacramento rejected an effort to upset McGovern's claim to all 271 California delegates.

In another court development, a federal judge in Jackson, Miss., ruled that the regular faction is the legal Democratic party in Mississippi, but declined to order the national convention to accept his findings.

SUIT CHALLENGES LAW

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A suit filed in Chancery Court here Thursday challenges the constitutionality of regulations barring private clubs from advertising.

The suit, filed by Robert E. Troutt, also attacks regulations requiring clubs to buy their stocks of liquor from retailers.

Troutt, operator of the Gas-lite Club in Little Rock, claims the rules under the state's 1969 mixed drink law are discriminatory.

The cost of alcoholic beverages to his club could be cut by 30 per cent if he could buy from wholesalers, Troutt said.

19 tanks destroyed

NV forces in retreat
near Hue

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces, backed by Soviet-built heavy weapons and tanks, punched through South Vietnam's northernmost defense line above Hue today but were driven into retreat with heavy losses, field reports said.

The Saigon command said that 19 North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed and added in a communique that "the Communist forces suffered heavy casualties in the battles taking place north and southwest of Hue city."

The command said there were no significant actions on any other fronts.

The U.S. Command announced, meanwhile, that one of the Air Force's biggest computerized gunships was shot down last Sunday night on the northern front and 12 crewmen were missing. Three crewmen were rescued. The command said it had withheld disclosure of the loss of the AC130 gunship because of weeklong search and rescue operations now terminated.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers streaked toward the Chinese border to attack North Vietnam's north-east rail line about midway between Hanoi and the frontier. Two rail bridges were wrecked and a section of the track was cut on the 80-mile northeast line, the U.S. Command said.

The Command said Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers flew more than 320 strikes across North Vietnam today, the most in a week.

South Vietnam's 11th Airborne Battalion, virtually wiped out in fighting in the central highlands two months ago, broke the thrust of the North Vietnamese assaults that hit at four different positions south of the My Chang River defense line, roughly 20 to 25 miles northwest of Hue.

Only fragmentary reports on casualties for both sides were available in today's fighting.

Two South Vietnamese reconnaissance platoons along the My Chanh River, perhaps 60 troops, were reported overrun with 23 men missing.

Skyjacker bails out
after getting ransom

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — A youthful gunman who changed planes in St. Louis after an auto rammed the first American Airlines jet he hijacked bailed out over north central Indiana early today with $502,500 ransom he got along with two parachutes.

Indiana state police launched a search of the area and officials said four or five FBI agents arrived at nearby Grissom Air Force Base to take charge of the manhunt.

State police and FBI agents, aided by helicopters, concentrated the search in the Mississinewa Reservoir area south-east of Peru.

State police said the man parachuted from the plane about seven miles west of Kokomo, north of U.S. 24, about 4:15 a.m. EDT. A spokesman said the man was going to widen the rifle, a hand grenade, two shovels and $500,000.

FOOTPRINTS

By GEORGE SMITH

Mattie Sanders is 75 years old, looks 50, weighs 206, has weighed as much as 250 and is supposed to weigh 185. Loves God, life and people in that order and can talk the nails off a sign post.

A visit with Mattie (her real name is Martha Phiebia but she prefers the easy-to-pronounce Mattie) is an auto experience in history, love and religion.

After last week's column announcing my return to Hope, I received a call from Mattie. She informed me I'm a member in good standing of Mattie's Mattie that I was one of her "babies."

Since Mattie was deviously back and I'm a sickly-white most of the time, I was taken aback slightly. She informed me of the circumstances. I like countless other babies who were born in the old Julia Chester Hospital and then Memorial Hospital in 1927 until 1962, was under Mattie's care soon after my birth. She washed my diapers, burped me, fed me, bathed me and generally looked after me until I left the hospital.

How did she remember me? I was one of the prettiest babies that came out of that hospital. So Mattie, in pictures, doesn't owe me a favor and isn't looking for a handout that expectation.

I visited with Mattie on her birthday last Tuesday afternoon. She is a beautiful woman and for a with Mattie is like a spring breeze refreshing, invigorating and downright pleasant.

She talked about people I had never known, about countless friends that had died or moved away and about patients she had tended over the years. But the subject matter was immaterial; it was her presence that was important.

Mattie's front porch was a stage, she was the leading lady and I was the captive audience. But there was no play, just a piece of life, sliced thick with understanding and decorated with a multitude of memories.

We talked about her children, my children. She winked and laughed when I told her my daughter was named Mattie. Her job at the hospital, my job at the newspaper, her attack of arthritis and the high cost of living. She apologized for the dust on the porch, which I hadn't noticed, and mentioned that the city was going to widen the street when they get around to it.

I stayed about 15 minutes, and finally had to leave after promising to come back to eat homemade ice cream and make her bedtimes.

But really, Mattie is a special person. She lives of herself, which is a rare commodity in the Store of Life.

I learned one important fact: When they say "Back is beautiful," they're talking about Mattie Sanders.

Dictionary of dirty words is 'way of life' in Spain

By FENTON WHEELER

Associated Press Writer
MADRID (AP) — An entire dictionary devoted to dirty words? In Catholic Spain, where censorship has become a way of life?

No, not one volume, but two, both best sellers, a third in the making and two more scheduled.

Sold clandestinely, then, by furtive pornographers?

Wrong again. Available in bookstores and compiled by the country's leading novelist, Camilo Jose Cela, author of the best-selling "Family of Pascual Duarte," which has been translated into 19 languages, plus French.

In paperback alone, Cela's first volume has sold more than 100,000 copies, a roaring success by Spanish standards. Hardback sales are estimated at 50,000.

His second volume, nearly twice as large, if the first is voted to street language for words that mean urine. Currently he is at work on a volume about the female sex organ. He is undecided where to focus volumes four and five.

The books have a limited circulation outside Spain, since they cannot be translated. They have yet to be widely published in South America. But if you want to know the equivalent of a dirty word in Cuban, Puerto Rican, Ecuadorian or Cuban Spanish, it is in the dictionary.

Cela, 55, does not agree that the words are dirty. He says they have certain tones and places where they can be used.

"The fact that a word exists does not harness it with the supposition that its use is bad or must be excused by simply indicating the evidence that it exists as such a word," he says. "It is more performing a function, naming an object, an action, a sensation or a feeling in quantities." Cela was his first volume.

He acknowledges he has never presented his dictionaries to the Ministry of Information and Tourism for approval before publication. His "Family of Pascual Duarte" was presented in 1943 and held up two years.

Would the government risk suppressing the dictionaries of the country's leading philologist and member of the Royal Academy of the Spanish Language? Most of Cela's friends "think not."

The dictionaries are full of history, literature and explanation. Cela gets most of his information from his library of 15,000 books, and says it takes him years of reading to produce a volume.

Cela avoids Madrid. He lives in the year by staying in the house of Majoria.

A naturalist who knows his words, he is a brilliant writer. And if you want to talk to him, he knows the words.

Once-a-month pill developed by Georgia doctor

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Once a month, when the moon is full, thousands of women in Mexico and Chile take an oral contraceptive developed by a Georgia doctor who says it is 90 to 95 per cent effective.

"It does away with the tyranny of taking a pill 365 days a year and reduces it to 12 times a year," said Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of Augusta, developer of the once-a-month pill.

"Other countries are getting the advantage of it first," said Greenblatt, chairman of the endocrinology department of the Medical College of Georgia. "It's being used extensively in Mexico and Chile."

"It probably will be about 10 years before the Food and Drug Administration allows it in this country," the researcher said in a telephone interview. "It's not an ideal birth control pill, it's about 90 to 95 per cent effective" and has some side effects.

"But it's a satisfactory one, particularly for underdeveloped nations," Greenblatt said. "For example, say in Thailand or Taiwan, or in any country where you have great masses of illiterate people, how do you get them to take a pill every single day?

"The monthly pill, then, is a great boon for them. But how do you explain to them that they should take the pill on the 25th day of their menstrual cycle?"

"So, you tell them to take it when the moon is full, so they'll take one once a month. The first month is hazardous for still getting pregnant. But when the body regulates itself to the pill, then it becomes effective," Greenblatt said.

"The pill contains both estrogen, which has a protracted effect so that it acts to prevent ovulation for the next month, and progesterone, which insures a period in the current month."

During latter stages of development several years ago, the monthly pill prevented pregnancy in all 138 trials in 40 Georgia women.

Most of his patients, Greenblatt said, were "enthralled" with not having to remember to take a pill a day.

We were talking about pollution the other day and we got to thinking: What would happen if every kind of motor or machine-run vehicle (cars, trains, buses, planes, trucks, etc.) were banned for a year? Or somebody said "Zap!" and they stopped running?

Would we all die or would we somehow make it?—Whatiffer Whatiffer:

That's a great idea for a science fiction novel. If I had the answer I might try writing it.—Helen Note for Sue:

My mother never told me advice columning would be like THIS! Next question Please—Sue Sue and Helen:

I have a hard time finding a guy because I'm not very popular. Tony, who is 21, asked me out, and I guess I was grateful or something. I'd never been a pushover before but we ended up in his apartment. Now that I realize how wrong I was, I want to break up, but he says "No!"

He says if I don't keep on with him he'll spread the word around town that I am an easy make. So I'm going with him to save my reputation...while losing it!

If my parents find out they'll never trust me again. (They think Tony's a great guy now.)

Since he's threatened me, I almost hate him, and I can't go on being used, but I'm scared of what will happen when he spreads the "news" all over town.—16 and Scared "16 and Scared:

Tell him two can play this little game: if Tony spreads the "news," then YOU will spread the truth and what girl would chance dating a blackmailer? And mention casually that the first person you'll tell will be your father.—Sue Dear 16:

Two little words will stop this louse: statutory rape! He's 21—an adult; you're a minor. If he doesn't want to be a non-paying guest of the State, he'd better beg YOU to keep quiet!—Helen Dear Rap:

With all this talk of women's liberation, it appears we're progressing backwards. There were 19 women in Congress ten years ago, two of them senators, the rest representatives. Today we have just one woman senator, and only 11 women in the House...And there's not one woman governor!

Meanwhile, (mostly male) state legislatures refuse to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, and keep rigid anti-abortion laws on the books.

The few women in Congress have done outstanding jobs. Why don't we at home persuade more qualified women to run for office and vote for them?—College Girl Dear College:

We should; and we could put our candidates in office—for women hold 53 per cent of the vote.

Here's another of my "out-on-a-limb" predictions: by 1980 I believe we'll have at least 100 women in Congress.—Helen

MRS. DAVID BRUCE CHISM

Catholic rites unite couple

Miss Cynthia Ann O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. O'Neill of Broomfield, Colorado, and David Bruce Chism, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chism of Hope, pledged their marriage vows on Sunday afternoon, May 28, in the Nativity of Our Lord Catholic Church of Broomfield with Father A. G. Dresen officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

With a background of organ music and a setting of spring flowers, the bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of pearl white linen designed with a high cuff collar, long sleeves, fitted bodice and a line skirt flowing into a self-train. Linen daisies decorated the bodice of the gown and banded the skirt above the hem line. A touch of pink satin enhanced the Empire waist and was repeated above the daisy band on the skirt. Her elbow-length bridal illusion cascaded from a camelot headpiece of Venise daisies done to match her gown. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white daisies.

Mrs. Alfred Goetzfried of Broomfield was the bride's only attendant. She wore an abstract floral print of pink, yellow and green embossed cotton. It had an Empire waistline with elbow-length puff sleeves. She wore a Dior bow headpiece and carried a nosegay of yellow daisies and other spring flowers.

Richard Ray Chism of Texarkana served his brother as best man. Sean O'Neill, brother of the bride, was the ring bearer. Alfred Goetzfried of Broomfield, Colo., Raymond E. Covelli, Ronald Covelli and Terrance Covelli, all of Weldona, Colo., ushered.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. O'Neill wore a floral print with white accessories, and Mrs. Chism, mother of the groom, was attired in navy with white accessories. Each had a white daisy corsage.

After the ceremony, a reception and wedding dance were held at the American Legion Hall in Louisville, Colo.

The bride attended West Texas State University, College of Music in Canyon, Texas. The groom also attended West Texas State University, College of Music in Canyon, Texas, where he was a member of Kappa Kappa Psi fraternity. The wedding couple had a trip through the Rocky Mountains and are now at home in Hope at the King Apartments.

INDIAN ART SHOW

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An exhibition presenting the range of the major forms of American Indian art will be presented Oct. 8 through Dec. 10 by the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and Walker Art Center.

The showing will be in conjunction with the Indian Art Assn., recently formed specifically to work on this project by representatives of nine local Indian organizations.

Principal support has come from the Dayton Hudson Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The exhibition will present such object groups as masks, carved figures, painted hides, pottery, basketry, weaving, costumes and musical instruments. Where traditions persist, recent examples of tribal art will be included.

A scientist endeavors to replace appearance by facts. A bridge player should try to replace a probability by a sure thing any time he has that opportunity.

You can see that West holds exactly two clubs including the queen. After all, the four hands are right in front of you.

Declarer can't get this look, but this time he doesn't need it. Good play can show him the club situation just as surely as if he were looking at all four hands.

West cashes two heart tricks and leads a third one to kill dummy's queen. East ruffs and South overruffs. South leads a club to dummy's king and tries the trump finesse. West gets his third trick and leads a trump back. South draws the last trump.

At this point South knows that West started with six hearts and three spades and therefore holds a total of four cards in the minor suits. He plays out his last trump and discards one of dummy's clubs.

Now he plays three rounds of diamonds leaving everyone with two cards. One of East's cards is the jack of diamonds. His other card is a club. One of West's cards is a heart so he also has one club. The queen of clubs is sure to fall.

What would South have done if West had started with three clubs to the queen? Gone down one trick. You can't win against some card combinations.

Snow skiing? Dogpatch will have it!

Jess P. Odom, Little Rock entrepreneur, today announced plans for the development at Dogpatch, of Marble Falls Estates, a highly unique snow-skiing and convention facility which will offer a variety of seasonal attractions the year 'round. The operation is scheduled to be opened to the public this winter.

"The Marble Falls development will represent a capital investment of approximately $5 million over the next three years," Odom stated in making the announcement, "and a continuing investment program for a number of years thereafter." Long range projections indicate that by 1982 an excess of $25 million in development capital will have been invested in the project, according to Odom. "The installation should provide immediate full-time employment for 50 or so persons," the developer added. "and part-time work for as many as 150 during special events. It is conceivable," he continued, "that between 350 and 500 job opportunities will develop in conjunction with the project over the next five years."

Dogpatch is located between Harrison and Jasper scenic Arkansas Highway 7 and is the home of Dogpatch, U.S.A., the recreation theme park based on Al Capp's internationally syndicated comic strip "Li'l Abner."

Odom is majority owner, board chairman and president of Dogpatch U.S.A., Inc. Marble Falls will encompass 668 acres of beautiful Ozark foothills immediately adjacent to the Dogpatch park. "A number of the development's features will be "firsts" in Arkansas and the Mid-South," Odom emphasized. "Among these will be snow skiing facilities including lodge, lift, and intermediate and beginner slopes which will be operated December 15 to March 15 of each year; a permanent 12-month ice skating rink; and the latest concept in convention facilities to accommodate 600 to 1,000 persons," the developer added.

An Antique Automobile Museum, the first of the Marble Falls attractions, has already been opened to the public. Odom has collected variety of vintage and special-interest cars from two continents. "Cars are featured in the museum, the recently was high bidder and high total purchaser at the James C. Leake auction conducted at the Leake museum in Muskogee, Okla. Odom's bid was at $26,000 for a 1937 Rolls Royce Silver Wraith owned by British actor Laurence Harvey.

Also in operation in the Marble Falls park is the American Junk Exchange, a shop-swap outlet for antique and junk dealers. Planned features include a multi-level complex attached by covered walkway to the convention center; complete dining facilities located in the center and provisions for recreation activities including swimming, tennis, cave tours, horseback riding and sightseeing. Golfing will be available at a nearby course. The adjacent Dogpatch theme park offers a day of fun and adventure to visitors of all ages.

The Marble Falls operation is planned so that it will operate in harmony with the Dogpatch theme park, with each to complement the other and thus increase the number of visitors to both attractions. "The new convention-recreation facility will be operated around the calendar," Odom explained, "and it is entirely conceivable that the combined attractions will warrant lengthening the daily opening schedule for Dogpatch U.S.A." The theme park is presently operated Memorial Day through Labor Day on a daily basis, and on weekends during April, September and October.

2-hitter is a hard act to follow

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Arlin's two-hitter against Pittsburgh last Sunday was a hard act to follow but he managed to do it with a one-hitter against San Francisco.

The San Diego Padres' right-hander was brilliant all the way against the Giants Friday night but he still needed a three-run homer by Nate Colbert in the eighth inning to give the Padres a 4-1 National League victory.

Arlin and Giant left-hander Sam McDowell locked in a pitching duel that lasted until Colbert's shot. Garry Maddox got San Francisco's only hit when he tripled in the second and scored on a sacrifice fly by Alan Gallagher.

"It was the same pitch I struck out two batters on in the first inning," Arlin said.

Arlin, 7-6, walked three and struck out eight while McDowell, 8-5, walked four and struck out four in seven full innings.

In other National League baseball games, Cincinnati thumped Houston 7-1, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 2-1, Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 4-2, Montreal trimmed Philadelphia 2-1 and St. Louis at New York was rained out.

Cincinnati regained first in the NL West as Ross Grimsley pitched a five-hitter and was backed by Jonny Bench's 19th homer of the year. Bench's three-run circuit in the fourth, a single run in the fifth and three runs in the eighth gave the Reds a half-game lead on Houston.

The Astros scored their lone run when Grimsley cut loose a wild pitch in the ninth with a man on third.

Frank Robinson's 10th homer won the game for Los Angeles before its largest home crowd of the season, 53,107. His sixth-inning shot following Willie Davis' double put him in a tie with Eddie Mathews and Ernie Banks for career homers with 513. The Braves loaded the bases with none out in the seventh but managed just one run.

Robert Clemente drove in two runs with a windblown triple as the Pirates rallied for three runs in the fourth. The victory over Chicago was Steve Blass' eighth straight and raised his record to 9-1.

Right-hander Mike Torrez, 8-3, of Montreal and the Phils' Jim Nash pitched scoreless ball for seven innings before Oscar Gamble drove in a Philadelphia run. The Expos loaded the bases in the eighth and Ron Fairly singled in one run and Ron Woods drove in the winner with a sacrifice fly.

Brewers roll out the barrel, have fun with 8-1 win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

On "Ten Cents A Beer Night" in Milwaukee, the Brewers rolled out the barrel and had themselves some fun.

A crowd of 20,865 turned out to take advantage of the beer sale and watch the Brewers play Boston. And some of the patrons might have thought they had tipped one too many when they saw the "6" go up on the scoreboard for the home team in the fifth inning.

The home team Brewers, in case you haven't noticed, have not exactly been tearing up baseball's American League. Only three times all month had they scored as many as six runs in an entire game and here was the scoreboard man asking the fans to believe six runs in a single inning. Was he in the beer too?

Nope. It was true. The Brewers did indeed have a six-run inning and wound up whipping Boston 8-1.

Elsewhere in the American League Friday night, New York tripped Cleveland 4-1, Kansas City shut out Minnesota 5-0, Texas edged Chicago 4-3 and California beat Oakland 2-1. Detroit's game at Baltimore was rained out.

Ken Brett allowed just three hits in eight innings to earn the Brewers' sudsy victory—his first triumph since May 10. Did it mean anything special since it came against his ex-teams-mates? Not at all.

"I'm glad to win even if it's against the girl's softball team across the street," said Brett. "I've got a long way to come back. I haven't won in six weeks."

The Yankees stretched their winning streak to six games—longest in two years. Fritz Peterson earned the victory on a six-hitter.

Bernie Allen drove in New York's first two runs with a third inning homer, his first of the year.

The victory left third place New York 5½ games behind Detroit in the American League's East Division.

John Mayberry had a big night for Kansas City, driving in four runs, three of them on an eighth inning homer as the Royals whipped Minnesota.

Dick Billings' eighth inning single drove home the winning run for Texas as the Rangers knocked off Chicago.

Ted Ford and Frank Howard both rocked knuckleballer Wilbur Woolf for Texas home runs. But Howard, for one, was impressed with the floater.

Nolan Ryan fired a two-hitter and struck out 10 Oakland batters including seven in the first three innings, pitching the Angels past the A's.

Bob Oliver's ninth inning homer broke a 1-1 tie to give Ryan his seventh American League victory in 12 decisions.

Ladd has no regrets

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ernie Ladd, who boasts he was the highest paid lineman in pro football history, has no regrets since quitting the game at his peak.

As a wrestler, the 32-year-old athlete has doubled his salary.

"In what other sport," Ladd said, "can you pick up a $14 pair of boots, 59-cent socks, spend maybe a total of $50, and convert it into $100,000 a year if you are sharp and train?"

Ladd even shortchanged himself on the pay, since he claims to have made $115,000 on the mat last year.

But the money is only part of the good life, Ladd said during a stop in Baltimore to compete against Pedro Morales, the heavyweight champion of the World Wide Wrestling Federation.

"Now, I'm my own boss," he said. "I take off three months a year. I'm a more complete man. I come and go when I please."

In football, if a coach called me at 4 a.m., I had to jump. Now, I can say the hell with it if I don't want to do something."

The 6-foot-9, 290-pound Ladd doesn't like to be told what he can and cannot do. He claims that's why he quit the Kansas City Chiefs in 1968.

"I wanted to see the Olympic Games in Mexico City, and Coach Hank Stram wouldn't let me go," Ladd recalls. "He said if he let one player go, he'd have to let them all go. So I quit."

Ladd, a 15th round draft choice of San Diego in 1961, played out his option with the Chargers and signed with the Houston Oilers in 1966.

"I was making $57,000," Ladd said. "Houston signed me for more money than Joe Namath was making. They still owe me a few hundred thousand, and have to pay me until 1989."

The former defensive tackle joined the wrestling circuit in 1964 and "practically starved while I took my lumps for three years and had my nose rubbed in the mat."

But even when my payoffs were bad," Ladd said, "I raised hell in the ring and I kept improving."

Ladd, who said he rejected a suggestion from former boxing champ Archie Moore to become a fighter, claims he is in the best sport
